SELL-SIDE
DEALS. EVER.

THE PROBLEM

Building corp dev in-house is a year and a million dollars.

Most buyers do not have a corporate development function.
Standing one up is the expensive way to find that out.

- A standing team is a fixed cost attached to an occasional activity — and it sits idle between deals.
- A year to hire and ramp before the first deal gets worked.
- Most banks are built for the sell side. A buy-side search is a different job.

Targets under $250M revenue. Buy-side only — THE LINE, smbX practice perimeter.

THE ENGAGEMENT

smbXCorpDev

Thesis to close. The whole buy-side function, run for you.

- 1 Thesis — what to buy, and whether it is buyable today.
- 2 Sourcing — the owners who are not looking to sell, reached under your name.
- 3 Evaluation — financials rebuilt, every adjustment tested, surprises found early.
- 4 Structure & offer — terms a lender will back. We write it and we negotiate it.
- 5 Diligence & close — where deals come apart. Every thread held to signing.

One buyer per target. Never the sell side – it is in the engagement letter.

THE UPGRADE

smbXCorpDev Premium

Everything above. Then the part most advisors skip.

- 6 Integration — the first hundred days, planned before close. You keep the people and the customers you just paid for.
- 7 Value creation — we stay past day 100: the thesis tracked, the levers pulled, the add-ons sourced.

Premium is the same team staying in the deal after the wire clears.

FOR THE ACQUIRER

Pick the engagement. We'll bring the function.

smbXCorpDev takes you thesis to close. smbXCorpDev Premium stays through the first hundred days and beyond. Either way it is one senior operator, on your side of the table. Book a call at smbx.ai.
